VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1867. NO. 194.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

THE PEABODY FUND—THE BANQUET.

The New York World gives an interesting account of the entertainment given by Mr. Peabody to the Trustees of his Educational Fund. We condense:

THE FESTIVE BOARD

consisted of two long tables united by a kind of belt at the east end, leaving the sides and centre open for the servants. Mr. Peabody sat at the centre of the table on the north side of the room, and the Hon. R. C. Winthrop occupied a seat vis a vis at the centre of the table on the south side. The company were disposed of in an admirable manner by Mr. Peabody himself, who assigned seats to the ladies and gentlemen with rare taste, according to the most approved counsels regarding such kind of etiquette. The service of the table were superb in the extreme. They consisted of two magnificent sets, the one of gold and the other of silver, recently imported from France. They cost $12,000. It was all of the Louis XV. and Louis XVI. style, and comprised about fifty pieces of the most rich and elegant designs and workmanship. These pieces are exact copies of those used by Napoleon III. on State occasions.

LIST OF THE GUESTS.

Among the invited guests were the following named ladies and gentlemen, at the north table: Mr. Peabody in the centre: Admiral Farragut, Mrs. Gen. Grant, Bishop McIlvaine, Mrs. Bargh, Mr. Evarts, Mrs. Pierrepont, Governor Clifford, Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. Astor, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Jennings, correspondent of the London Times, Mme. Botta, nee Lynch, General Porter, Miss. Clifford, General Anderson, Mrs. Wetmore, Governor Graham, Miss Williams.

At the south table sat General Grant, Miss Weed, Mr. Stewart, Mrs. Rives, Mr. Astor, Miss Fish, Mr. Winthrop, Mrs. Farragut, Mr. Rives, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bancroft, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. Wetmore, Mrs. Forbes, Miss McIlvaine, Judge Pierrepont, Mrs. Tiffany, Dr. Sears, H. J. Raymond, Mrs. Anderson, and Mr. Weed.

At the table at the upper end of the hall were seated Governor Aiken, South Carolina, Mrs. Brooks, Governor Fish, Mrs. Evarts, Judge Roosevelt, Mrs. McGregor, and General Butterfield.

Covers were laid for seventy-three persons, and that number were present.

ADDRESS OF MR. WINTHROP.

After the company had feasted on the viands and delicacies the cloth was removed, and the orations of the evening commenced.

Mr. Robert C. Winthrop made the opening speech. He said:

MR. PEABODY, LADIES, AND GENTLEMEN: I trust I shall be pardoned for claiming your attention for a single moment. The hour is at hand when this distinguished company is to separate and when the brilliant occasion which we have so much enjoyed will exist only in those grateful remembrances of the past which can never be effaced from our hearts. It is, I am aware, and was intended to be, a purely social occasion, where anything of formal speech-making would be quite out of place. But as the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, to whom, in company with our illustrious associate General Grant, this banquet has been given, a duty has been imposed on me which I must not omit to discharge.

I hold in my hand a brief series of resolutions which were unanimously adopted by the trustees of the Peabody Education Fund at the close of their proceedings a few hours ago. They were moved by the Hon. William Aiken, of South Carolina, seconded by the Hon. William A. Graham, of North Carolina, and, after eloquent and impressive remarks, by Bishop McIlwaine, of Ohio, and by the Hon. William C. Rives of Virginia, every member of the Board rose in his place in attestation of their adoption.

And let me say in passing, that it is not among the least welcome circumstances of this occasion that our noble host, by the magic of his munificence, more powerful than that of any Midas, of old, has brought together around a common board, Virginia and New York, North Carolina and Ohio, South Carolina and Massachusetts, Maryland and Pennsylvania, in the persons of so many of their distinguished sons, once more to consult together on subjects relating to the highest interests of the whole American people; and once more to interchange those assurances of mutual regard and respect which are the best and only pledges of permanent and perpetual Union.

If Mr. Peabody had accomplished no other object but this, he would have entitled himself to the heart-felt homage of every lover of his country. * * * *

"And now, my friends," (continued the speaker,) "I will attempt no eulogy of Mr. Peabody. Distant, far distant be the day when his eulogy shall be pronounced as it hereafter will be. I feel, too, that his deeds of munificence are far above the reach of any praises which it is in my power to utter. Landing, as he did, here at New York, after a long absence in England, where he had already performed acts of charity without a precedent in the annals of the world, and which gave a new lustre to the American name wherever that name is known; landing here, I say, on the 1st day of May last, his visit to his native country has been one continued May-day of benevolence and beneficence. There has been no winter in his bounty. The storms and snows of New England, which have raged around him with more than their wonted severity, have not been able to repress or chill—have stimulated, rather—the genial currents of his soul. His pathway through our land has been a perfect Milky Way, leaving a radiance on the historic page as enduring as that of the stars above us. And this last, best, largest, noblest crowning gift for aiding the work of education in the desolated South, has, above all others, touched and thrilled every heart in the land; and there is at least one of the trustees—I think I can speak of them all—who regards his association with that gift the highest honor of his life. It was once said on some occasion, by my illustrious friend, the late Daniel Webster, in that terse and impressive language, in which he excelled almost all other men—that if an inquiry was made as to what America has ever contributed to the world, it was enough to say that she had contributed the character of George Washington. And we, of this day and generation, may now answer to that enquiry, that she has not only contributed the character of George Washington, but also the example of George Peabody. And, let me add, that if some American Thackeray should hereafter spring up to compose a series of Essays on the American Georges, he will be able to trace in them elements of true nobility, of real royalty, such as have rarely adorned the lives of those who have wielded the sceptre of earthly sovereignty in any land or age. But I beg pardon of Mr. Peabody for such personalities. I must not say more, I could not say less. Let me only assure him, in conclusion, that everything has gone on most harmoniously in the proceedings of our Board, and that measures have been adopted which will soon be communicated to the public, and which, as we all believe, will secure the entire success of his noble design. Nor is the day distant, we trust, when thousands and thousands of young children of every class of the population in the Southern and South Western States will have substantial cause to bless his name as their greatest benefactor. God grant that he may live long to witness the fruits of his beneficence; to visit the States which his bounty will have helped to restore, we hope, to more than their former prosperity and happiness; to be hailed by them, as he is by us here to-night, as the great philanthropist of his age.

Ladies and gentlemen: I ask you to unite with the Trustees in drinking the health of our loved and honored friend, Mr. Peabody. (Applause.)

Mr. Peabody replied in an appropriate and feeling manner.

THE APPROPRIATIONS DECIDED UPON.

The meetings have been strictly private: but the public will be gratified to know that the discussions had resulted, prior to the interesting event last night, in decisions which will be made known on Monday or Tuesday next, through the report emanating from the trustees themselves. The party has been entertained during their stay in the city at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and all the resources of that splendid house have been used to give character to Mr. Peabody's hospitality.

NOTICE!

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN!

There will be a vessel to sail from the port of Wilmington, on or about the third of April, to sail for Bolivia, Venezuela, for the purpose of taking out any emigrants that may go to look or locate. Passage not in coin or its equivalent.

I have land titles to give to all Confederate soldiers, (1280 acres,) who will go, and passage for the above $25. I have reserved stock to sell to any other person for $168, including passage out.

I will say, for the information of parties, that there have left for Venezuela, since November last, the rise of 2,100 emigrants.

Dr. H. M. Price, and some of the Directors, are now on their way, out to hold elections and frame the government.

There have been 40,000 shares of stock in this Company sold to a Banking-house in England, which will soon enable the Company to carry into effect their design of putting on a line of Steamers from the Southern States to Bolivia. This town has about 7,000 inhabitants, one half of whom are English. Mules and oxen can be purchased very low.

For further information, write me at Raleigh.

WE OFFER TO THE PUBLIC THIS CELEbrated Oil, and in doing so we unhesitatingly pronounce it SUPERIOR TO ANY BURNING OIL IN USE. It is Non-Explosive. Free from Grease. It will not grease the hands. It will not soil or grease the clothing. It is more brilliant than Gas. It produces a soft and beautiful light. It is not so trying to the eyes. It can be used in any Kerosene Lamp by adopting our LIGHT HOUSE OR RATCHET BURNERS.

It has been most favorably received, and pronounced by judges to be the

BEST AND MOST RELIABLE OIL

now in the market; and in consequence of the many serious accidents arising from the EXPLOSION OF KEROSENE, this Oil is extensively known and used in preference.

We are now prepared to furnish the trade with this valuable Oil, and we solicit from the public an examination and trial.

We have on hand a large stock of

LAMPS, BURNERS, CHIMNEYS, WICKS, &c.,

and can supply the trade on liberal terms.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, | SEATON GALES, EDITORS.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1867.

THE WESTERN DEMOCRAT.

This paper, in alluding to the warning we gave the other day, in regard to confiscation, says:

"We agree with the Sentinel exactly in the above remark, and are sorry that that paper did not give such good advice when the Howard amendment alone was under consideration. But we repectfully suggest to the Sentinel that its course is not tending to peace and quiet, but is calculated to "inflame and excite" by the continued assaults on Mr. Holden and other citizens of this State who feel that they are pursuing the best policy and doing their duty by co-operating with Gov. Holden. We hope the Sentinel will discontinue quarreling for the next twelve months."

It is human nature to be blind to our own faults. We can see the faults of others at a glance, but our own—how difficult to see! We have great confidence in the good motives and intentions of our cotemporary, but we regret that we have not equal confidence in its judgment. We do not envy the judgment or feelings of any Southern man, who could accept the Howard amendment as a matter of choice, when submitted as such; while we can appreciate the purpose to accept it or worse, when forced upon us.

Our friend thinks we are fond of "quarrelling." We protest that the charge is untrue; yet we regret that we should have made such an impression upon him. We submit to the Democrat: Where is the instance in which we endeavored to "inflame and excite," by continued assaults upon any one? Are we chargeable with assailing any one when we repel assault? We protest that we are not chargeable with any discord which may exist. Could we have discharged our duty to truth and the public, to have remained silent under the torrent of abuse and falsehood with which the great body of the State have been, almost continuously, assulted since the surrender? Ought we to submit to the charge of traitor, against ourselves and the great body of the people, from men not a whit more loyal than ourselves and nineteen-twentieths of our people? Had we consulted our private feelings and inclinations, we confess, we should have been silent. We would not have gone even so far as the Democrat has, in repelling assaults upon the State and her citizens, made by Northern men and presses. But duty to our people compelled us to repel, with even more vigor, those false charges made by native born citizens of the State than if made by those living North.

We challenge the Democrat to point out an instance in which we have assailed anyone for his honest opinions,—any true Union man, or even any doubtful Union man, for honest opinions. Against true Union men—men always Union—we have never urged any objection. It is only against the pretences of men who claim to be better Union men, more loyal, and more fit to reconstruct than others, who are as true and as loyal as they are, that we have objected.

But the chief point in the Democrat's article, upon which we design to comment, is this:

"In order to advance reconstruction, we think that none but those who are considered loyal by Congress should seek to hold office under the reconstruction movement."

We agree with the Democrat and have so stated repeatedly. We want no failure this time in the work of reconstruction. We are anxious that the purposes of the Congress shall be carried out. The opponents of Mr. Holden are in no wise responsible for the failure of President Johnson's policy. Congress never alleged, as a reason for the rejection of the representatives of North Carolina and the other States, that they had failed to reconstruct on the President's plan. Even Tennessee was rejected until she gave a pledge of reconstruction on the Congressional Radical platform. No one of proper discernment and a full appreciation of the situation can for a moment believe, that the other States of the South would have been reconstructed, upon the mere adoption of the Howard Amendment.

Now that Congress has set aside wholly the President's platform and adopted one of its own, we desire that it shall be fully carried out. We would not throw a pin in its way. The Democrat says, "in order to advance reconstruction, we think that none but those who are considered loyal by Congress should seek to hold office under the reconstruction movement." Now that is the point. We think precisely with the Democrat. We do not know a man who is not so recognised by Congress, who has any idea of either voting or seeking or accepting office. We certainly will not advocate the claims of any such person. Does the Democrat know any such person? If so, name the man. But whom does Congress recognise as loyal? Here is our only difficulty. It is plain, first, that Congress does not recognise any man as loyal enough to take a seat in Congress who cannot take the test oath; secondly, that it does not consider a man loyal enough to become a register of the voters, and hold the elections under the reconstruction act, who cannot take the test oath. We have not intimated any wish or desire that any others shall hold these offices under the reconstruction act. We want the platform fully carried out. But Congress distinctly admits in the reconstruction act, that all who are not disfranchised, by the act itself, are loyal enough to vote or hold office in the State; that all such are loyal enough to engage in the work of reconstruction itself. Now, we have no bill of any other test to vote or hold office in the State or any where else, except those distinctly designated by the reconstruction acts as passed by the Congress. Can the Democrat show a jot or tittle to the contrary? Does the Democrat desire a different rule to be carried out? Will it be so good as to tell us, upon the authority of Congress itself, for we admit no other to be good authority on this subject, who they are, other than those we have designated above, whom Congress regards as loyal enough to advance the work of reconstruction?

This is a point upon which we desire positive information. Our people desire to know. If Congress only admits those to be loyal who can take the test oath, then we are content. We can have in that event no choice. The writer of this article is not disfranchised by the Reconstruction Act. He can, as we understand it, vote or hold office in the State under that act; yet if Congress does not hold us to be loyal enough, we certainly do not desire nor would we attempt to do either.

The only persons very prominent in the work of reconstruction in the State, as yet, are those who can neither take the test oath nor the oath prescribed for voters and office holders under the Reconstruction Act. In the meeting to be held here to-morrow, there will be some simon pure Union men, who can conscientiously and consistently take the test oath. If they shall lay down the platform that none others can, by the approval of Congress and the Commanding General, take part in the work of reconstruction, and the Commanding General says so, that would settle the point, and we should be content. But if Congress and the Commanding General both declare that all embraced in the Reconstruction Acts are qualified, who dare say to the contrary?

We are inclined to believe that reconstruction, and the approval of Congress will only be rendered absolutely certain by confining reconstruction entirely to those who can take the test-oath. We almost wish that Congress had so said, positively. Then all difficulty would have been removed, and no ground would have been left for cavil or controversy. As it is, if disfranchised persons claim to be more entitled than others to manage the matter, those with equal or superior claims will call in question their rights in the premises.

DESTITUTION IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Col. Bomford, Assistant Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau for this State, states, in a recent report, that there are at least some six thousand persons in North Carolina suffering from want of food, of which number two thirds are whites. Three thousand bushels of corn were distributed during the last month, sent by the Southern Relief Commission of New York City. The distribution by the bureau of government rations was as follows: To hospitals, 6,483; orphan asylums, 1,715; destitute whites, 10,958; destitute blacks, 13,421.

"UNION LANDMARKS.

5. The right of the States to determine for themselves the question of suffrage.

6. Unqualified opposition to what is called negro suffrage."—Standard, 1865.

WE SUGGEST that Mr. Holden be appointed Secretary of Mr. C. L. Harris' meeting to-morrow. If he still preserves it, he might use the "gold pen," in recording its proceedings, with which he signed the ordinance of secession on the 20th of May 1861.

WE PRESUME that Mr. C. L. Harris will be called to preside over his meeting to-morrow. We suggest that he embrace the occasion of his inaugural, to explain why he voted against the bill to allow persons of color to testify in our courts of justice.

NOW AND THEN.

"The suggestion of the Salem Observer that the Unionists of North Carolina henceforth adopt the name,—and we may add the organization,—of the Republican party, is well-timed, and meets our hearty approbation. While we do not presume to dictate, we would respectfully advise our friends to at once accommodate their political language to this important change."—Standard, March 26, 1867.

"Black Republicans are made up of three classes:—unprincipled and selfish politicians who are too intelligent not to know that their conduct is anti-constitutional and dangerous,—ignorant fanatics,—and mean, lazy, low-bred white men and free negroes. Falsehood, slander and treason are their leading characteristics."—Standard, Oct. 15, 1856.

A PECULIAR SUPPOSITION.—A stranger who arrived in the city from New York yesterday,—being unacquainted with the great extent of Western floods, was astonished to see the river so far up in the streets, and was heard to naively ask a friend, "Doc, ain't real estate very high in this city, that the people have built their houses so far out in the water?"—Louisville Courier, 18th.

Sir Frederick Bruce, it is reported, has been informed by the British government that the sentences of the Fenians in Canada will be remitted.

Sidney Smith—"I remember entering a room, with a glass all round, at the French Embassy, and saw myself reflected on every side. I took it for a meeting of the clergy, and was delighted of course."

The prohibitory liquor law has proved a total failure in Connecticut.

The Little Rock Gazette of the 12th says, that between Madison and Memphis the water actually ran over the telegraph wires which stand along the line of the railroad track between those points. The old residents of Madison say the flood is within a few inches of that of 1844, and still slowly rising.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.—The conservative members of the Tennessee Legislature have issued a call for a Convention, to be held in the City of Nashville, on the 16th day of April, 1867, to nominate a candidate for Governor. Among the signers we observe the names of some of the best men in the State.

In the day of female suffrage, says Mark Twain, the man who hath beautiful whiskers shall beat the homely man of wisdom for Governor, and the youth who waltzes with exquisite grace shall be chief of police, in preference to the man of practiced sagacity and determined energy.

FACETIÆ IN THE PULPIT.—A preacher officiating at the opening of one day's proceedings in the Georgia Legislature got off the following: "May men of principle be her principal men."

For the Sentinel.

BRAZIL.—NO. 5.

PROVINCE OF PARA.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—In going to Brazil from the United States, the first Province that we reach is that of Para. This Province is the most Northernly on the coast and embraces the mouth of the Amazon river on both sides. It is of vast extent, and, lying between latitudes 4 degrees North and 9 degrees South, comprises an area of 615,000 square miles, or nearly as large as that of all the Southern United States combined. One-third of the Province is occupied by the valley of the Amazon and its confluents, and the land in much of it low and liable to overflow, during the periodical rains which prevail for about two-thirds of the year. The soil, where cultivatable, is extremely fertile. The climate, as in the whole valley of the Amazon, is damp, and at mid-day hot. But the nights and mornings are delightfully cool. I have already given, in a former letter, what Prof. Agassiz says about the temperateness of its climate. Rev. Dr. Kidder, of Newark, N. J., who spent several years in Brazil, as the agent of the Bible Society, distributing Bibles, in speaking of Para, the Capital, says: "The evening and morning scenes that may be enjoyed at Para, are indescribably beautiful. The blandness of the evening air is in delightful contrast to the rigors of the noonday sun, and an occasional breeze invigorates the system after the confinement or exposure of the day. Although there falls a copious dew, yet so balmy and healthful is the atmosphere, that there is no dread in exposing to it the most delicate constitution. A morning scene is scarcely inferior in effect."

The Amazon river, which flows through the middle of this Province, is the largest river in the world. It has an average breadth of three to five miles, but at its mouth is one hundred and fifty miles wide. The largest sea going vessels may navigate it for three thousand miles, and this under sails without difficulty, as the rise of its current in 2,500 miles is only 250 feet, or about one inch to the mile. With its confluents, it affords navigation, for large steamers, of over 10,000 miles. The whole valley is densely wooded with an inconceivable variety of woods of the most beautiful and useful kinds, in cabinet work, shipbuilding, &c. Prof. Agassiz says that he saw at Para one hundred and seventeen different kinds of this description of woods which had been collected within a space of half a mile square—more than twice the number of all the kinds of woods in the United States used in the arts and manufactures. I suppose every one knows that it is from this valley comes the immense quantity of India Rubber now manufactured in this country.

The land and water teem with the same infinite variety of birds, animals and fishes, as of plants. To name them would require a column. The same Professor says that "in a pool at the mouth of the Rio Negro, of but a few hundred yards in extent, he found over two hundred kinds of fishes—more than ten times as many kinds as are found in the whole Mississippi River. That in the Amazon the different kinds number over two thousand." The prospective commerce and development of this region, is the future, is simply inconceivable. In 1853, under the exclusive charter of the Government, a line, composed of one steamer, commenced the navigation of this river. The line now numbers nine steamers, and are unequal to the business. By a law recently passed, the navigation of this immense and productive region will be thrown open to the world on the 7th of next September; and already there has begun a tide of emigration.

The city of Para or Belem, on the Amazon, about 100 miles from its mouth, is the Capital and chief town of the Province. It has a population of about 25,000, and a large commerce, which is increasing with great rapidity. In 1862 its foreign imports were $2,503,925, and its exports were $3,-121,310.

Although its lands are so fertile and its climate so equable that the seasons are unknown (being under the equator) and planting can be done equally well in any month, and three crops raised in the year, yet it is doubtful whether it would suit our people. Near the rivers chills and fevers prevail, while yellow fever has lingered here with more tenacity than in any other part of the Empire. There is, however, a settlement of our people being made in this Province, under the leadership of Maj. L. W. Hastings, of Mobile. He has obtained a provisional grant of a very large tract, and already one or more vessels are preparing to sail with settlers. The exact location of this settlement I could not ascertain, except that it is near the mouth of the Tapajos river.

The population of the Province is 250,000, of which 39,000 are slaves, and 4,000 domesticated Indians. There are, besides Para, seven important cities in the Province. Education is provided for by two High Schools, eighty primary or free schools, and a large number of private schools.

Besides India Rubber, Cocoa, Sarsaparilla, Chincona bark and an immense variety of other medicinal plants, dye-stuffs and cabinet woods, this Province exports a large number of neat cattle and their products. The island of Marajo, lying opposite the city of Para, in the Amazon, of some four hundred and fifty miles in circumference, or about the size of the State of New Jersey, is one immense grazing field. This island belongs to two brothers of the name of Campbell, of Scotch and Brazilian descent, and is only a part of their landed possessions. To show the rapid increase of the business of this river, I will state that in 1853 the Amazonian Navigation Company began their line of steamers. In 1855 the line was in full operation. In that year the inward bound freight amounted to $160,-440, and the outward bound $290,278. In 1862 the inward bound freight had increased to $1,872,000, and the outward bound $1,-072 891.

THE PROVINCE OF MARANHAM.

Next to Para, going South, is the Province of Maranham. It lies between 1 and 10 deg. South latitude, and embraces an area of about 68,000 square miles, nearly as large as the States of North and South Carolina. The northern half of the Province (towards the sea) is low and flat, and intersected by numerous rivers, many of which are navigable for long distances. The southern half (interior) rises into the table land. The climate is warm and moist, but modified by the vapors and frequent rains. The thermometer ranges from 82 to 90° scarcely ever showing a diurnal change of more than 5 degrees.—The northern half, along the rivers, is not considered healthy for our people. The rainy season prevails about six months in the year, though the rains are not so continuous as in Para. But one must not suppose that in this region of Brazil even, the rainy season is one continuous, drenching rain. The rain sometimes continues during the day, but usually it comes in showers at 10 A. M., and 3 P. M., continuing for about two hours, and with such astonishing regularity and precision, that engagements of pleasure or business are made for before or after the shower. In this Province (the southern half) are rich mines of gold, silver, and bismuth. The soil of the northern half is exceedingly fertile.

The chief products are cotton, rice, sugar, arrow-root and every variety of tropical fruits and productions. From this Province comes, chiefly, our supply of Brazil nuts.—The country is generally well wooded, and the woods abound with monkeys, parrots and other birds of great variety and brilliant plumage. Ferocious animals are very few, but many poisonous reptiles.

The staple article of export is cotton, and that raised about Alcantara, as I have before mentioned, is the best in Brazil, equalling our sea-island. The exports in 1862 amounted to 7,360,000 lbs. Since then it has greatly increased, but I have not the statistics.

The population of the Province is about 400,000, of which about 70,000 are slaves.—Its capital and shipping port is San Luis, situated on a good harbor in the bay of St. Mary's, the common outlet of four important rivers. It has a population of about 34,000, and by some is considered the best built city in Brazil. Education is provided for by 14 Seminaries, and 78 Primary Schools.

PROVINCES OF CEARA, ETC.

The Provinces of Ceara, Piauhi, Rio Grande, and Parahiba, I shall pass over with barely mentioning. They are all sea coast Provinces, and resemble that of Maranham (especially Piauhi) except that they are more elevated. Rio Grande and Parahiba are two of the smaller Provinces of the empire, and are mostly hilly. The area of these four Provinces together is about 180,000 square miles, and their population about 1,158,000, of which about 120,000 are slaves.

PROVINCE OF PERNAMBUCO,

This Province lies between 6 and 11 degrees South latitude, and has an area of about 96,000 square miles, or twice as large as North Carolina. Much of this Province is of but little elevation above the sea, slightly undulating, having few trees and known as the Sertao or wilderness. But along most of its Southern border runs the large river San Francisco, and it is in the valleys of this river and its affluents that are found the rich sugar and cotton lands, and the luxuriant meadows that continuously feed the important and growing commerce of its capital and chief town. On account of the falls of San Francisco, where it descends from the table lands, the products are transported mostly on pack mules. A Railroad is, however, now being constructed from the city of Pernambuco to Joazeiro, above the falls of the San Francisco, of which about 70 miles are completed to the River Una. The climate is warm and damp, but not so much so as the Provinces North of it. The wet season continues for about three months,—from March to July. The interior, where elevated, is healthy and pleasant.—The chief productions are sugar, cotton and hides, besides dyewoods and medicinal plants. In 1859 there were 1,272 sugar estates in the whole Province,—there are now over 300 in close proximity to the railroad.

The Capital and chief city is Pernambuco or Recife, which has a population of about 100,000.

In 1862 the exports amounted to 108,-406,560 lbs. of sugar, and 8,211,808 lbs. of cotton. In 1864 the export of cotton had increased to 19,141,520 lbs. of cotton. The city of Pernambuco stands upon the shoulder of the South American continent, which projects farthest into the sea, and gives to it many advantages for business and commerce. Approaching the city from the sea its appearance is very beautiful, rising like Venice, the Queen of the Adriatic, from the bosom of the sparkling sun-lit waters. But I will not attempt a description. I have studiously forborne even to touch upon the romantic beauties of nature or art, scattered in wild and abounding profusion, throughout the enchanting and healthful regions of this vast empire, and have confined myself to the simple statement of unadorned facts. I shall continue to do so; for it is important and useful information that is required by a people who are debating the subject of forming new homes. When established on lands fertile in the production of everything that can minister to their wants or comfort, in a climate healthful and uniformly delightful, and enjoying, in peace and quiet, the fruits of their labor under a government of mild, just and equal laws, while surrounded by a peaceful, educated and intelligent people, the surprise of natural scenes and beauties delighting the eye and enchanting the fancy, will not detract from their domestic happiness.

The population of the Province of Pernambuco amounts to about 1,800,000, of which over 260,000 are slaves.

There are in the province 1 seminary and 108 primary schools. In the city of Pernambuco is located a Theological College and one of the famous Law Colleges of Brazil, containing over 300 students.

PROVINCES OF ALAGOS AND SERGIPE.

These are two small sea-coast Provinces lying between Pernambuco and Bahia. I must pass them with a bare mention. In natural characteristics they are similar to Bahia. They comprise, together, an area of about 37,439 square miles, or about the size of the State of Kentucky, with a population of 470,000, of which 105,000 are slaves.

PROVINCE OF BAHIA.

This Province lies between 9 deg. and 18 deg., South latitude, and comprises an area of 224,000 square miles—larger than Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia combined. The climate varies according to locality. The land rises very abruptly from the sea and continues rough and uneven for 60 to 70 miles to the interior. The trade winds, charged with moisture, meeting with this sudden obstruction of a cooler temperature, pour down in sudden and frequent showers. In this district, consequently, it is warm and damp. But further into the interior we come to the table lands proper, and the hilly and mountainous region. Here the climate is dry, genial, and very healthy, except immediately along the rivers. The San Francisco, one of the most important rivers of the sea coast of Brazil, runs through this Province. Throughout its valley, and those of its affluents, the lands are extremely fertile, and embrace a large scope of country. There is now being constructed an important Railroad, from the city of Bahia to the San Francisco, above its descent of the table lands. This road and that from Pernambuco will strike the river at nearly the same point, and the competition they will introduce is giving a mighty impetus to the settlement and cultivation of this great and fertile valley.

The Province abounds in minerals. Gold, silver and diamonds have been found in large quantities. Iron and copper also abound in its mountainous region. In its forests, which are of great extent, are found some of the most valuable woods used in naval construction, house building and cabinet work,—such as lignum vitæ, rosewood, and satin-wood of many varieties. Like the Provinces North of it, its medicinal productions are numerous and varied.

The chief agricultural products are sugar, cotton, coffee, tobacco and tapioca. The cattle of this Province are indifferent and the beef inferior. The most important product is sugar. Its export in 1862 amounted to 88,102,768 lbs. The next in importance is tobacco. Exports in 1862 were 33,171,136 lbs. Exports of coffee in 1862 were 9,443,344 lbs. Previous to 1861, cotton received but little attention, but in that year the Bahianos became aroused to its importance, and its cultivation in this Province is now perhaps in advance of that of any other part of the empire. In 1863 its exports amounted to 1,465,048 lbs. Since then plows have been introduced into its cultivation, and its production is said to have vastly increased; but I could get no later statistics.

The capital of the Province is Bahia, the second city of the Empire, having a population of 180,000. It is a busy and commercial city. Here all the lines from Europe and North America touch, and its communication with Rio, by coast steamers, is frequent. This city is the residence of the Archbishop, and here is located one of the distinguished Medical Colleges, and a Theological College. Besides these the Province contains one Lyceum, one Seminary and one hundred and eighty-one primary schools.

The population of the province is 1,200,-000, of which about 300,000 are slaves.

In 1862 its exports amounted to $10,096,-445, and imports to $9,597,022.

In the Southern portion of this Province some of our people, from the Gulf States, have settled; but there has been no organized emigration that I could learn.

Yours, W.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

CHAPEL HILL, March 15th, 1867.

At a called meeting of the students of the University of North Carolina, held in Girard Hall, on the morning following the death of the Rev. James Phillips, S. T. D., Professor of Mixed Mathematics, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, In the death of Dr. Phillips, our venerated and valued Instructor, the community at large, and the University in particular, have lost one who, combining the attainments of an able Professor, the affection of a sincere friend and the piety of a true Christian, we cannot reasonably hope to supply his place in the Institution which he so much adorned, and never the place he occupied in our hearts; and as the only available means of expressing our appreciation of this bereavement,

Be it Resolved, That we mourn his loss as irreparable, and, in offering our heartfelt sympathy to his afflicted family, are unable to express it in words.

Resolved, That in his respective duties as a Pastor, Professor and citizen, the life of no one could surpass his in the conscientious performance of them, and few have ever equalled it.

Resolved, That the impress he has left upon the University will survive his decease, and that his long professional career of unstampled rectitude, both in the performance of his duties as an instructor, and in his uncompromising adherence to the laws and regulations of the University, and in his unvarying punctuality, will ever be cited as a life to be emulated; and though dead, his deeds will live after him, and while his mortal remains are returning to the dust from whence they sprung his living example will deter the vicious from evil and incite the good to excellence.

Resolved, As the only visible expression of our sorrow, we wear crape for the space of thirty days, and dress the Chapel in mourning for the same length of time.

BEAR IN MIND THE FOLLOWING FACTS:

1st. Our House is the oldest Dry Goods Establishment in the city,—our Junior member having been in the business nearly 20 years.

2nd. We keep one of our firm constantly in the Northern markets.

3rd. He is well posted as to quality and price of goods.

4th. We buy for cash: and buy goods lower by doing so.

5th. We know the wants of our customers and our goods please them.

6th. Our motto is "quick sales and small profits."

7th. We do a live business—don't keep any dead stock on hand.

8th. It is a notorious fact that we buy the best quality of goods: and sell them at low prices.

9th. We attend strictly to our business.

10th. We sell goods for cash.

11th. If we make anything, it is spent in the improvement of our city.

12th. We don't keep dry groceries.

Are not the above 12 good reasons why you should buy your Dry Goods of us?

We had hoped to have carried our beautiful Spring stock to our new Store, but owing to the bad weather, have been delayed. We will sell it out at our old stand.

We can truthfully say that a handsomer stock of HO! TO THE PUBLIC!!

NOW, THAT ALL SHALL WORK FOR THEIR bread is a lesson divinely taught, and the truth of which is sorely felt and urged by the hard times that are upon us, labor-saving machines have a greater claim to the attention of the laborer than, perhaps, ever before.

W. A. Coe's "Apple Parer, Cutter, and Corer" patented "Feb. 19th, 1867," and his "Peach Parer and Cutter," patented "Oct. 30th, 1860," are some of the things needed by the times, and are now offered to the patronage of the public. The Apple Parer, Cutter, and Corer is cheap, portable and simple in its parts, and can, by a little practice, be well worked by a child ten or twelve years old. By trial, it has proved a capacity to Pare, Cut and Core Thirty Bushels of Apples in a day, and to do this, by the control of one person. The Peach Parer and Cutter is similar in its parts, with the working tools adapted to the difference of the fruit and work to be done. It is as readily worked as the first named, and will do the amount of work of six hands in a given time, managed by one person.

Propositions for shop, county or State rights for the manufacture and sale of these machines, will be entertained by either of the undersigned.

VALUABLE LANDS AND MILLS FOR SALE.

NOT being able to attend to my Mills and Farms on Little River, I now offer them for sale. They are located 3 miles above Lowell Cotton Factory and 5 miles from the N. C. R. Road in Johnston County. The said tract contains about well timbered land, containing enough open land for a 3 or 4 horse Farm, with a comfortable dwelling and all necessary out houses requisite to a farm.

The soil is well adapted to the growth of Cotton and Corn, with ample facility for improvement.

Also, connected with said farm a GRIST MILL, with two pair of stones, and a SAW MILL, all in running order, with water power enough to drive a Cotton Factory!

Also, one other tract, lying on Buffalo Swamp, containing about 500 acres cleared land, enough for a 5 or 6 horse Farm, with low grounds drained by a twenty feet canal with all other ditches necessary. Will make, if well cultivated, 400 or 500 barrels of corn. The upland is well adapted to the growth of Cotton and Corn, with every facility for improvement.

FERTILIZERS FOR SPRING CROPS.

WE beg to inform the trade and planters of North Carolina and Virginia, that we are prepared to furnish them with the most approved FERTILIZERS, on the most accommodating terms. We will have a stock of genuine PERUVIAN GUANO, purchased direct from the Agent of the Peruvian Government.

We have now in store, for immediate delivery, 325 tons BRADLEY'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME, which won for itself such an enviable reputation in the Cotton and Tobacco counties of North Carolina and Virginia, last season, proving itself equal, and in many important respects, superior to the Peruvian Guano. We give an analysis of it as ascertained by Dr. Hayes, one of the most eminent Chemists in the country:

Results of Analyses Made of Bradley's Patent Super-Phosphate of Lime, as now sold by Wm. L. Bradley.

100 PARTS CONSIST OF

Moisture	8.30
Prepared animal matter, salts of Ammonia, fatty substances and Humus	28.50
Bone Phosphates of Lime, Magnesia and Iron	36.80
(Soluble Phosphates of do. 16 6-10.)
Sulphate of Lime
Salts	16.50
Insoluble	10
	3.60
	93.80

The animal matter afforded 4 2-10 parts of Ammonia when it was decomposed, and, as will be seen, nearly one-half of the Bone Phosphate is soluble.

After many analyses of your Super-Phosphate of Lime, made during the last few months, I have found your standard of quality full equal to that of any you have ever sold in former years; and I am satisfied that you include the correct principles in the manufacture. Respectfully,

A. A. HAYES, M. D., State Assayer.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1867.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

To Advertisers.—The public will find the Sentinel one of the best mediums of advertising in the State. Its circulation covers a larger area, perhaps, than any other paper.

New Advertisements.—Messrs. W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co. have a talk with the public to-day. We invite attention to their announcement.

The Summer Session of the School of Medicine of the University of Maryland will commence on Tuesday, April 2, 1867. It affords us pleasure to commend this institution to Southern patronage. It has a peculiar claim upon our own State, which is so ably represented on the Faculty in the professional ability of Drs. Howard and DeRosset.

Towles commences with a fine lot of Ready Made Clothing, at Auction, this evening. Sale to be continued to-morrow.

W. R. Poole will rent, for the present year, a three horse farm, six miles East of Raleigh.

See Mitchell, Allen & Co's. usual advertisement.

See Professional announcement of Dr. Bancock.

Council of State.—This body met today in the Executive Office, Messrs. Wright, Joyner, Jones and Asbe were present. In anticipation of the arrival of other members to-night, the Board adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Outrage.—We learn that as Mr. James M. Harris was proceeding down Fayetteville St., last night, between 9 and 10 o'clock, he was seized by some soldiers, with the evident purpose of robbery. He made such demonstrations, however, as compelled them to desist and depart. We are informed that two of the party have been arrested and will be properly dealt with by the military authority.

We are glad to learn, as we do from the Charlotte Democrat, that the recent sleet and snow in that section did not kill all the peaches. There is still a chance for plenty of fruit.

Mike Lipman's Circus and exhibition of trained animals will visit this City on Friday, the 5th of April. It is well spoken of in the Southern papers.

A Detachment of colored troops has arrived in Wilmington for garrison duty.

The Flood in Kentucky.—The damages by the late flood seem to have been almost as heavy in Kentucky as in Tennessee. The Louisville Democrat says:

We have heartrending accounts from Frankfort and all points along the Kentucky river. Immense damage has been sustained by the farmers living upon its banks, in their houses, tobacco barns, hay, cattle, and other products.

The Supreme Court at St. Louis, Missouri, has rescinded the order requiring lawyers to take the test oath required by the constitution of that State.

Bad Luck and Good Luck.—Bad luck is simply a man with his hands in his pockets and his pipe in his mouth, looking on to see how it will come out. Good luck is a man of pluck, with his sleeves rolled up and working to make it come right.

Edwin Forrest forwarded to Dr. John T. Ford, manager of the Holiday Street Theatre of Baltimore, a check for five hundred dollars for the aid of the Southern sufferers.

The protest of the London clergy against ritualistic practices is completed, having four hundred and twenty-three signatures, representing 1,101,000 parishioners.

If Phineas T. Barnum gets into Congress, his first effort will doubtless be considered a mer-maiden speech.—Ex.

At last accounts the waters of the Tennessee river were surging through the rooms of the Crutchfield House at Chattanooga.

Chicago is the scene of a reported attempt to swindle a life insurance company by means of a bogus death, fictitious will and stolen corpse arrangement. A doctor and a lawyer are implicated and the matter is to be investigated.

GEN. SICKLES' ORDER.

We are indebted to his Excellency, Gov. Worth, for a copy of Gen. Sickles' order on assuming command of this District. We publish it below and re-iterate the opinion that our people and authorities will cordially co-operate with the Military in the maintenance of law and order.

Headq'rs, Second Military District,
(North Carolina and S. Carolina.)
Columbia, S. C., March 21, 1867.

General Orders,
No. 1.

I. In compliance with General Orders No. 10, Headquarters of the Army, March 11th, 1867, the undersigned hereby assumes command of the Second Military District constituted by the Act of Congress, Public No. 68, 2nd March 1867, entitled "An Act for the more efficient government of the rebel States."

II. In the execution of the duty of the Commanding General to maintain the security of the inhabitants in their persons and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, the local civil tribunals will be permitted to take jurisdiction of and try offenders, excepting only such cases as may by the order of the Commanding General be referred to a commission or other military tribunal for trial.

III. The civil government now existing in North Carolina and South Carolina is provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States, at any time to abolish, modify, control or supercede the same. Local laws and municipal regulations not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States, or the proclamations of the President, or with such regulations as are or may be prescribed in the orders of the Commanding General, are hereby declared to be in force; and, in conformity therewith, civil officers are hereby authorized to continue the exercise of their proper functions, and will be respected and obeyed by the inhabitants.

IV. Whenever any civil officer, Magistrate, or Court neglects or refuses to perform an official act properly required of such tribunal or officer, whereby due and rightful security to person or property shall be denied, the case will be reported by the Post Commander to these headquarters.

V. Post Commanders will cause to be arrested persons charged with the commission of crimes and offences when the civil authorities fail to arrest and bring such offenders to trial, and will hold the accused in custody for trial by Military Commission, Provost Court or other tribunal organized pursuant to orders from these headquarters. Arrests by military authority will be reported promptly. The charges preferred will be accompanied by the evidence on which they are founded.

VI. The Commanding General desiring to preserve tranquility and order by means and agencies most congenial to the people, solicits the zealous and cordial co operation of civil officers in the discharge of their duties, and the aid of all good citizens in preventing conduct tending to disturb the peace; and to the end that occasion may seldom arise for the exercise of military authority in matters of ordinary civil administration, the Commanding General respectfully and earnestly commends to the people of North and South Carolina unreserved obedience to the authority now established, and the diligent, considerate and impartial execution of the laws enacted for their government.

VII. All orders heretofore published to the Department of the South are hereby continued in force.

VIII. The following named officers are announced as the staff of the Major General Commanding:—

Capt. J. W. Clous, 38th U. S Infantry, Act. Asst. Adjt. Gen. and Aid de-Camp.
Capt. Alexander Moore, 38th U. S. Infantry, Aid-de-Camp.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The following is the Constitutional Amendment referred to in the 4th. section of the Sherman Bill:

Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

Sec. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice-President of the United States, representatives in Congress, executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such State being twenty-one years of age and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

Sec. 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice-President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may, by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

Sec. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims, shall be held illegal and void.

Sec. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

The following is the oath of office referred to in the 5th section of the bill, and also in the 6th of the Supplementary Bill:

An Act to Prescribe an Oath of Office and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, That hereafter any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit under the government of the United States, either in the civil, military or naval department of the public service, except the President of the United States, shall before entering upon the duties of such office, and before being entitled to any of the salary or other emolument thereof, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I, A B, do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the U. S. since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have never sought nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear (or affirm) that to the best of my knowlege and ability, I will support and defend the constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter. So help me God," which oath, so taken and signed, shall be preserved among the files of the Court, Houses of Congress, or the department to which said officer may appertain. And any person who may falsely take said oath shall be guilty of perjury, and on conviction, in addition to the penalties now prescribed for that offence, shall be deprived of his office, and rendered incapable, forever after, of holding any office or place under the United States.

Approved July 2, 1862.

Tuesday Morning Dispatches.

CONGRESS.

Washington, March 25, P. M.

In the Senate, a petition from the Union league, asking for the application of the military reconstruction bill to Maryland, was referred to the Judiciary committee.

Saturday's proceedings, relative to adjournment, were withdrawn.

In the House, a resolution was adopted, (88 to 31,) that the House adjourn on Thursday, to meet the first Wednesday in May, June, September, November or December, unless the President or officers jointly proclaim, ten days previous to the time appointed, that there is no necessity of the meeting.

Several bills connecting the Mississippi river and the lakes by a ship canal were referred to the committee on commerce.

A resolution, authorizing the Secretary of War to employ dredge boats to keep open the channel of the mouth of the Mississippi, passed.

The minority of the Maryland Legislature petitioned Congress not to adjourn until that State had a republican form of government. Ordered to be printed.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, March 25, P. M.

General Frank P. Blair has been nominated as Minister to Austria.

John M. Waskum, being about to leave for Texas, addressed a letter of enquiry regarding suffrage, under the Reconstruction Bill, to Senator Wilson, who replies that all can vote and hold municipal or State office except a certain parties who have taken an oath to support the Federal Constitution and afterwards aided in the rebellion. The rank and file of the Confederate army are not disfranchised.

The disfranchised persons are mentioned in the Howard amendment. Neither the Sherman or the Supplemental Bill extends the disfranchisement.

Forty Thousand Dollars Worth

OF THE MOST DESIRABLE AND

FASHIONABLE DRY GOODS

EVER OFFERED IN THIS MARKET, NOW OPENING AT

SMITH'S, 25 SYCAMORE STREET,

PETERSBURG, VA.

Quick sales and small profits being now more than ever my firm conviction of the true way to success, I am determined to pursue this course, and as advertising is only effectual when it is read, I am also determined to advertise only such goods as are really on hand and in stock. Independent of the large stock of

DRY GOODS,

I have added a large stock of Cocoa and Straw Matting, Oil Cloths, Carpets, Lace and Damask Curtains, Table and Piano Covers, Lace Tidies, Bleached and Unbleached Satin-Damask and Snow-drop Table Linen, Napkins, Doilies Towels, Huckaback Linen Doulas, Diaper and Birds-eye Diapers in great variety. All kinds of white goods—such as Dressed and Undressed Jackonets and Cambric, Checked Muslins, Nainsooks—plain and checked, Mull-Muslins, Swisses, plain, checked, dotted and embroidered, Organdies and Granadines, Book Muslins, Tarletons—white and colored.

Also, a full assortment of LACES AND EMBROIDERIES, from the finest real Point Lace Collar, worth $25, to the lowest Imitation lace, worth 25 cents. A full assortment of Bands, Edging and Flouncings—Cambric, Jackonet, Nainsook and Linen.

Also, the most extensive stock of IRISH LINEN in Virginia.

Full lines of Linen and Muslin HANDKERCHIEFS, in plain hemstitch and fancy; do. embroidered and Lace trimmed, from 25 cents to $12,50 each.

The most complete stock of Spring MANTLES ever offered in this market, is now opened, embracing some forty different styles, and all new. This cannot fail to be a most interesting feature of our business to the ladies.

The stock of LADIES' DRESS GOODS, embraces all the new fabrics to be found at the most reasonable rates.

The SILK stock is far larger than any in the State, and commands our especial attention—The encomiums the ladies have heretofore passed on this stock, as compared with anything they had seen, leaves us without anything to say, more than it is now larger and more complete than it has ever been. No lady wishing to buy Silks should do so, without first examining this stock.

The assortment of CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND LINEN GOODS, for Spring wear, is entirely complete, embracing the largest Stock of its kind, and at the most moderate prices.

The largest and finest stock of GLOVES AND HOSIERY ever offered, is now being opened, embracing everything in the line, from the finest Alexander's Kid gloves, to the lowest grades.—Hosiery in endless variety, embracing every kind and for every age.

I have also added the most complete assortment of SMALL WARES, NOTIONS, TRIMMINGS, &c.

The WHOLESALE STOCK is complete in every respect, and is the largest I have ever offered, being bought exclusively for Cash.

Great inducements will be offered for the Cash. Samples will be sent by mail free of charge on application, with prices marked on each, thereby enabling those who cannot visit our city, to make their selections at home—at as low prices as if they were present.

TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 1867.

PRETTY IS THAT PRETTY DOES.

The spider wears a plain brown dress,
And she is a steady spinner;
To see her, quiet as a mouse,
Going about her silver house,
You would never, never, never guess
The way she gets her dinner!

She looks as if no thought of ill
In all her life had stirred her,
But while she moves with careful tread,
And while she spins her silken thread,
She is planning, planning, planning still
The way to do some murder!

My child, who reads this simple lay
With eyes down dropt and tender,
Remember the old proverb says,
That pretty is which pretty does,
And that worth does not go nor stay
For poverty nor splendor.

'Tis not the house, and not the dress
That makes the saint or sinner.
To see the spider sit and spin,
Smit with her webs of silver in,
You would never, never, never guess
The way she gets her dinner!

Alice Cary.

A LAWYER WITH TWO CHARACTERS.

One cold evening in November, ten years ago, a man, wrapped in a large cloak, knocked at the door of Mons. Dupin, one of the most able advocates of Paris. He entered, and drawing from under his cloak a large package of documents, laid them on the table.

"Monsieur!" said he, "I am rich; but a lawsuit which is commenced against me, may ruin me utterly. At my age, a lost fortune is not to be re-made. The loss of this suit, therefore, would condemn me to the most frightful misery. I come to implore your aid. Here are the papers which explain my claims."

The advocate listened attentively while his unknown visitor thus briefly explained his business. Then, opening the bundle of documents, he went through them with the searching rapidity of his professional eye.

They were, at last, laid upon the table.

"The action which is commenced against you for this property," said he, "is based upon justice and right—legal and moral. The property belongs to your opponent. But, unfortunately, in spite of the admirable elaboration of our code, laws and justice do not always go together; and here the law is on your side. If, therefore, you rest your case entirely on the law, and use without reserve all technicalities and quibbles, and if the legal points in your favor are stated clearly and ably to the court, you will inevitably gain your cause."

"No man living," said the stranger, "can do what you describe so ably as yourself. Might I venture to hope that you would reduce your legal opinion to writing, and thus render me invulnerable?"

The advocate reflected for a minute or two, and then taking up again the documents, which, at the first word of request he had roughly pushed away, he said he would do as the stranger wished. On the morrow, at the same hour, the legal opinion would be ready.

The client was punctual. The paper was presented to him—accompanied with a demand, very abruptly made, for a fee of three thousand francs!

He stood mute with astonishment.

"You are at liberty to keep your money," said the lawyer, "and I am at liberty to throw my written opinion into the fire."

"I will pay the sum," he said, "but I must give you my written acceptance for it."

"The money in gold," said the advocate, "or you shall not have a line."

The client saw it was inevitable, and, taking his leave for the moment, returned soon with the coin. He paid it—but, in revenge, after gaining his cause, he told the story in every corner of Paris. The journals got hold of it. It was soon as universal as the name and fame of the great lawyer himself. Laments were made by the editors over the grasping advantages thus taken of a client in his extremity, and even friends expressed their regrets to him for this betrayal of avarice. But he simply shrugged his shoulders; and as everything is soon forgotten at Paris, it passed out of the public mind.

Ten years passed by; and, a few days since, at a celebration of which the Courts of Law formed a part, the procession was interrupted by a woman, who suddenly sprang from the crowd and seized the hands of Mons. Dupin, the Procureur General.

"It is he! It is he!" she exclaimed, as she burst into tears, and covered his hand with kisses; "this is my benefactor, my friend, the angel by whose timely kindness I was saved from ruin and spared to educate my children!"

"Poor woman!" said M. Dupin, "she has lost her reason."

But no! she insisted on explaining to the by-standers that there was reason in her tears and gratitude. She stated it brokenly. Ten years ago, after the death of her husband, a claim was put in by a relative for the property upon which she relied to support and educate her children. She resolved to defend her possession of that which she knew to be her own, and had already sold half her furniture to pay the commencement of the process—when, one day a stranger called upon her. He abruptly announced his business. He told her that the suit, for which she was running already into expense, would be a losing one—that the law was against her, though justice was on her side—that she had better abandon it and save what she still possessed. He then added, that, from having been employed on the case, he had been able to rescue some portion of what was wrongfully taken from her, and that it was contained in a bag of gold, which he laid on the table—abruptly taking his leave, and giving her astonished senses no opportunity for thanks or inquiry. The three thousand francs with which she was thus enriched enabled her to re-establish herself with her children, and to commence a timely support of them. And from that day she has been trying in vain to discover who was her benefactor. But his features were engraved on her heart, and, thank God, she recognized and could thank him now!

And so, after ten years of misappreciation, Mons. Dupin's "grasping avarice" was explained to his legal brethren and the public, as quite another thing!

Congressional Reconstruction Acts.

For the information of our readers we republish as follows the late reconstruction act of Congress, known as the Sherman-Shellabarger bill. We shall add to it the Howard Amendment, Test Oath and the supplementary act, all of which will be kept standing until the necessary information they contain shall be generally and fully understood.

THE RECONSTRUCTION ACT.

AN ACT to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States.

[Passed over the President's Veto, March 2d, 1867.]

WHEREAS, no legal State governments or adequate protection for life or property now exists in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas; and whereas it is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in said States until loyal and Republican State Governments can be legally established: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled; That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgement it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose, and all interference, under color of State authority, with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions. Provided, That no sentence of death, under the provisions of this act, shall be carried into effect without the approval of the President.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said state, twenty one years old and upwards, of whatever race, color or previous condition, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, or for felony at common law; and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates; and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such Constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification, who are qualified as electors for delegates; and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same; and when the said State, by a vote of its legislature, elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the constitution of the United States, proposed by the Thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen; and when said article shall have become a part of the constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and Senators and Representatives shall be admitted therefrom, on their taking the oath prescribed by law; and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State. Provided, That no person excluded from the privilege of holding office by said amendment to the constitution of the United States shall be eligible to election as a member of the convention to frame a constitution for any of said rebel States, nor shall any such person vote for members of such convention.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That until the people of said rebel States shall be by law admitted to representation in the Congress of the United States, any civil government which may exist therein shall be deemed provisional only, and in all respects subject to the paramount authority of the United States at any time to abolish, modify, control or supersede the same; and in all elections to any office under such provisional governments all persons shall be entitled to vote, and none others, who are entitled to vote under the provisions of the fifth section of this act; and no person shall be eligible to any office under such provisional governments who would be disqualified from holding office under the provisions of the third article of said constitutional amendment.

A CARD.

NUMEROUS inquiries have been made of me recently, as to the time when the second edition of my Book of Forms will appear, and I think it probable that other inquiries will be hereafter made. I have deemed it best to relieve myself from the necessity of writing many letters on the subject to gentlemen of the legal profession, in different parts of North Carolina, by stating in a card, addressed to the public, that I expect to place my manuscripts in the hands of the printer about the middle of May next, and I have reason to believe that the printing and binding can be completed by the first of July next.

RAW BONE SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME.

Manufactured under the formula originated in 1834 and patented by

BAUGH & SONS,

SOLE PROPRIETORS, AT THE

Delaware River Chemical Works,

PHILADELPHIA, U. S. A.

This old established MANURE is manufactured from Bones that have not been burned or steamed and it contains all their original organic matter. It is active in its operation, and is a fertilizer of great durability. It does not exhaust the soil like Peruvian Guano, but on the contrary permanently improves it.

Previous to 1861 it was introduced into the Southern States to considerable extent, and again in 1865, where it has been used with remarkable success upon Cotton, Corn, Tobacco, and all Crops.

A trial will convince any planter of its merits. Pamphlets containing well-know Southern evidence furnished upon application to New York or Philadelphia offices.

INSURANCE.

INSURE YOUR PROPERTY!

THE $22,000, INSURED BY MY COMPANIES, viz. Phœnix, of Hartford; Atlantic, of Brooklyn; Security, of New York; the Ins. Co. of the Valley of Va., and Jefferson, Scottsville Va., on the Exchange Hotel and Methodist Publishing House, will be paid promptly, as soon as the loss is adjusted.

The above Companies have been very fortunate, and while a number of Ins. Companies have "gone to the wall," owing to the frequent large fires, these have never been in a more successful and prosperous condition, or better prepared to pay losses promptly.

Application for Insurance on Churches, School Houses, Dwellings, Furniture, Store Houses and Stocks of Merchandize, solicited.
